According to Grayson Ferguson Verizon FIOS is a fiber optics entertainment system that brings in not only television programs but internet and telephone communications. However, you don't have to use or connect all the options available to you, including the phone option. Without a telephone service, FIOS will still function properly with the Internet and television programs. Contact Verizon FIOS (1-800-837-4966). This is a direct Verizon FIOS phone number. Request to register for Verizon FIOS. You are asked for your current postcode. This is desirable because Verizon FIOS is not available in all areas. Choose the package of services you want. This includes the speed of your Internet and the number of channels available. Here you need to know that you don't need a phone service. The base price will not change, but it informs the service technician about the necessary equipment to install the equipment. Choose the day and timing to install Verizon FIOS. Your internet and TV programs are then installed, without choosing a phone. After staying in business for 16 years in a highly competitive market, Verizon knows the importance of balancing quality with affordability. Have you ever dealt with slow loading, painful buffering and time out of web pages? These problems often occur when too much bandwidth is shared between friends or family on the same router. Now add your rising cable bill to that frustrating inconvenience and you're ready to pull your hair out. Tv Fios means fiber optics, a new form of Internet and cable service that uses thin, flexible glass fibers to transmit light signals. It was originally used for telecommunications and medical purposes, but has since been adapted for the Internet and television. Verizon Fios promises the fastest Internet with speeds of up to 940/880 Mbps. at this speed, download speeds become exactly as fast as download speeds, allowing you to stream content, chat with friends, record files, and browse the web. However, most consumers recommend a 150Mbps deal because it is sufficient for most computing needs, including streaming, and is about $200 less than the 500 Mbps plan. If you're not sure how fast your internet speed is now, you can check it out for free here. Verizon Fios starts at as low as $39.99 a month with automatic payment for 100/100 Mbps with a 1 year contract. This deal increases by $10 a month for every 50 Mbps added to the plan. That is until you click 300Mbps and 500Mbps plans - they are priced at $169.99 and $269.99, respectively. The download time for the lowest plan is 13.7 minutes for a 5G movie, and the download time is 32 seconds for 200 photos with maximum connection speed. The 500 Mbps plan offers 1.4 minutes for a 5G movie and 1.6 seconds for 200 photos. Times will vary depending on the speed of the connection. Registration requires a two-year contract and rates are raised during the second year. Increases and fees vary. You want to buy a new Verizon router. Other initial fees and fees may apply. Verizon Fios is only available in 11 states right now, so check availability for your home or business on The Verizon website. Verizon Fios helps customers move their services to a new home or apartment. Verizon offers packages for the Internet, television and telephone. Some of these include a $200 Visa prepaid card and a Starz or Epix free for the first year. Prices range from $79.99 per month to $124.99 per month before taxes, rates or fees. The least expensive kit is the main plan for 940/880Mbps Internet and custom TV for $79.99 per month. Each of these transactions is increased by $5 per month for the second year of the contract, with the possibility of cancellation of Starz and Epix (additional $15 per month). Verizon Fios provides a variety of tools to help you find information and search you through the process of ordering your package of services or bundles. In addition to subscription-supporting website and digital chat, those who are not so technologically inclined can call Verizon to sign up or confirm details.
